Sofia Lange
1065486672
TA: Vinitha Gadiraju
Recitation Section: 103
Time: Friday 12-12:50
Fundamentals of HCI
Project Idea

Book Keeper

My idea is for a device which can keep track of how far you have made it in a book. I, like many other people, have a stack of books sitting next to my bed that I never get to, but I know would enjoy if I did dedicate time to reading them. I think that if I had something to track my progress and maybe send me reminders and encouragement, it could help me overcome this issue. I think that implementing some sort of smart bookmark could be an interesting idea, and it could either be stand alone or sync to a mobile device for more interaction with the user. The target user group would be very diverse, but would include people who enjoy reading paper books of any genre and who find that they struggle to complete books. It could be used by all age groups, as long as the individual is moderately competent at handling technology.